

LUCIFER

Lucifer rode into Mercytown
In robes of angelic white,
The haloed smile of the Savior returning
“I am the way and the life.”

With a gospel that boiled up the marketplace,
Scorning the brown infidel
And promising roses to holy soldiers.
The bloom on the brambles of hell.

We cling to the rock when the flood waters rage
And crumble it under our feet.
It'll turn to the anchor that'll drag you down
And drown us beneath
The weight of the things we believe.

Darwin and Einstein are grimacing.
They're rolling around in their graves.
Their noble Science been sold out to finance,
Whipping the truth like a slave.

But the study got paid by the money man,
He knew what numbers to choose.
To make stats in profusion serve every conclusion
Whatever you want can be true.

Repeat Chorus

There's a clear light shines on fanatics and fools,
Gleaming warm and secure.
While shadow bedevils the wiser man
Who knows he might never be sure. >>> CHORUS
